Not So Bad.

Since 1825 the clothing of men has grown simpler and stimpler, and if the course of evolution has taken away from the picturequeness of the crowd, it has added to the dignity of the man.

Daily Thought.
For the best and sweetest is not a matter of circumstances; it is not even success and love. It is being in tune.—Anna Fuller.

Mark of Insincerity.
Beware of him who meets you with a friendly smile, and in the midst of a cordial salutation seeks to avoid your glance.

The Princess theatre comes in this week with a good film "Before Yorktown." The story reads, Jerome S. Beresford, a lieutenant in his majesty's army during the revolution, was a conspicuous figure in the war that made famous the name of Washington. Wounded in a skirmish while far away from headquarters, his comrades ask for assistance at the home of Dr. Adams. Beatrice, the only daughter of the aged doctor, volunteers to act as nurse and in the close companionship of the sick room, the two enemies fall in love with one another.

Lieutenant Beresford, almost in perfect health, is about to return to his army when he receives a visit from Major Fitzgerald, the head of the British army in the vicinity. The major becomes insulting when the old doctor and his daughter refuse to drink to the health of King George. He insists upon kissing Beatrice, who throws the contents of a wine glass into his face. During his absence from headquarters the plans of the Yorktown fortifications are stolen from his room by Beatrice's young brother, who is seriously wounded while escaping. After the Britishers leave the home, Beatrice finds her brother and receives the dying command to deliver the plans to General Washington. Disguising herself in her brother's clothes, the young girl starts on her perilous undertaking. She is captured and brought before Major Fitzgerald, who recognizes her and demands the plans. In desperation the girl seizes a heavy brass candlestick and knocks the major senseless. She is about to escape through the window when Lieutenant Beresford intercepts her and demands the plans, which she reluctantly surrenders and the lieutenant aids her to escape. Upon regaining consciousness the major sees the open window, and the lieutenant leaning from it and draws his own conclusions. He threatens Beresford with court martial, but is killed by a stray bullet before he can execute his threat. Lieut Beresford is compelled to surrender to Washington and when Beatrice, who has found protection in Washington's camp, hears of Beresford being a prisoner of war she pleads for his pardon so effectively that General Washington cheerfully grants it and a happy reunion follows. The Princess has also made arrangements for the Sullivan and Considine Vaudeville starting Thursday. This is the best vaudeville that can possibly be had. Mr. Ben F. Shearer is the new manager of the Princess and he promises to give the people good shows for their money.

THIS PICTURE REPRESENTS A YOUNG LADY CLEANING HER HANDS WITH "UNCLE SAM'S CLEANSER"

AFTER DOING HER HOUSE CLEANING WITH THE SAME ARTICLE. This cannot be done with any other cleanser without injuring the hands.

BRIGHAM YOUNG UNIVERSITY

Referring to a previous letter Provo, Utah, Feb. 21, 1911.

Mr. Fred Turner, Manager Uncle Sam's Cleanser Co., 361 South 5th West, Salt Lake City, Utah.

Dear Sir: You are at perfect liberty to make use of my letter if you see fit. I did not write it simply because your article was a home product—patriotism is not a part of the motive. "Uncle Sam's Cleanser" stands strictly on its merits in competition with everything I have used in this line. Very truly yours, GEO. H. BRIMHALL, Salt Lake City, April 6, 1911.

Uncle Sam's Cleanser Co. Gentls: I have been in the restaurant business for 25 years and I find your Cleanser to be the best and cheapest of any article I have used.

GEO. T. BRAY, Mgr. Chesapeake Cafe, Logan, Utah, May 27, 1911.

Mr. Fred Turner, Mgr. Uncle Sam's Cleanser Co. Dear Sir: We find that "Uncle Sam's Cleanser" is always good and always a repeater.

CITY GROCERY, Logan, Utah. ROBT. SHEFFIELD.

Ask your Grocer for Uncle Sam's Cleanser the best offered to the public. It stands strictly on its merit.
